The Warocqué School of Business and Economics, part of the University of Mons, was created in 1899. Its first objective is to train businessmen and women to play a key role in industrial and economic activities in Belgium and abroad. The Warocqué School of Business and Economics has met this challenge for over a century. Today, the Faculty curricula still meet the expectations of the ever-evolving world of economics and management.

The Warocqué School of Business and Economics delivers outstanding teaching and a great-learning experience for students. The quality of all the processes is certified by the ISO 9001 international standard, and our institution has received several awards from the Regional Government of Wallonia. Excellence is also an important value shared by the lecturers, whose mission it is to provide high-quality education and research.

Studying Business as an Exchange Student

The Warocqué School of Business and Economics offers a wide range of Bachelor and Master courses in French and English.

Within the framework of a bilateral agreement between your home institution and UMONS, you can opt for a stay of 5 or 10 months (1 or 2 semesters).

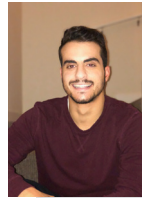

As an exchange student you will have the opportunity to create your own academic programme in order to meet your career objectives, in agreement with your home institution. You can also prepare a Master's dissertation under the expert supervision of one of our professors.

Beyond the classroom, you will also have the opportunity to work closely with the Faculty through sponsored activities, research projects, internship programmes, and through the Junior Enterprise.

Alina BOICU
ASE Bucharest (Romania)

My Erasmus experience in Mons was a deliberate choice. My desire was to study abroad and improve my language skills: Mons turned out to be just perfect! Being a university city, I got to meet people from all over the world. From a cultural and professional perspective, Mons offered me many enriching experiences and beautiful moments, from fast-paced and intense courses, interactive classes, group assignments and exams, to parties and wonderful trips with the new friends I had made. I would love to thank all the teachers for being so kind and welcoming. My best advice is to seize this opportunity and make the most of the experience!

Frank HENRIQUEZ
Kennesaw State University (USA)

My experience at UMONS was assuredly rewarding, and though there were difficult moments, it ultimately led me to a higher proficiency in the French language, and a plethora of unforgettable moments with fellow students from all around the world. It is important to highlight that although the cultural and academic differences were an obstacle for me, I was able to pass my course equivalents with good grades. Also, with the help of the extremely inclusive and supportive group of Erasmus students and administrators, I was able to have unforgettable nights and trips during my stay.

Cécile GODFROID

Faculty Coordinator for Incoming Mobility at the Warocqué School of Business and Economics

Being an incoming student at the Warocqué School of Business and Economics offers you the opportunity to become part of a friendly faculty, where the student is at the very heart of our concerns. International development has become the key concept of the Faculty, which results in our ever-growing offer of courses taught entirely in English. Beyond English classes, incoming students may also attend our French-taught programmes. What if you don't have the required level to attend such classes? Don't worry, you can also learn French through the 'French as a Foreign Language' classes our university provides to all our international students. At the Warocqué School of Business and Economics, you are also offered the opportunity to complete a research internship within our research departments, or to write your Master's dissertation in various fields, such as finance, marketing, accounting, international economics, management or environmental economics, under the supervision of one of our professors. I look forward to welcoming you to our faculty!

Some French-taught courses are supported by reference materials available in English, and students may take the exams for these courses in English.

Laetitia POZNIAK

International Exchange coordinator at the Warocqué School of Business and Economics

Your stay at our Business School could be a great opportunity for you to improve your language skills and learn French through Business classes. You could consider adding one or two French-taught courses to your study programme. Our courses have complementary English reference materials, meaning you can prepare on your own before attending the classes, and feel more comfortable about the possible language barrier during the lesson. Our teaching staff all speak English and will be able to answer any questions you may have.

Work Placement

Your academic programme can be exclusively made up of courses, or can be complemented by a placement in a Belgian company or by a research internship. Such an arrangement will give you the opportunity to have a great international experience and to get all the necessary skills to meet the challenges of an international career.

INTERNSHIP PROFILES (FOR A MINIMUM OF 6 WEEKS)

► Full-time internship within a company (38 hours/week)

Usually from September to January or February to June. This internship requires you to produce a written report and represents 10 ECTS. Applicants are responsible for all the formalities with the company, as the University has no formal agreements or partnerships in place with any firms. However, candidates may send their CVs¹ to us and we will act as an intermediary. Students may also decide to write a Master's dissertation (20 ECTS).

Some previous host companies:

McKinsey Belgium, PWC, Accenture, AB Inbev, Robert Half.

► Research internship*

This internship requires student to write a Master's dissertation or attend classes (both are feasible). Candidates may send a CV and a letter of motivation. We strive to answer within two weeks.

We offer four proposals:

- Research internship with the Accounting, Auditing, Risk Management and Entrepreneurship Unit (CARE) – Investigating Corporate Entrepreneurship.
- Research internship with the Finance Unit – Comparing European and American Markets (SME and Stock Exchange).
- Research internship with the Economics and Business Management Unit – Studying the management of microfinance institutions at CERMi.
- Research internship with the Labour Economics Unit – Investigating the impacts of human resource practices.

Andrea MURA

Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore di Milano (Italy)

I came to UMONS to work on a study about family businesses, more precisely about non-family managers in family businesses. When I first arrived, I was a little bit worried, as this was all new to me. However, very early on, my mentor helped me structure and define my approach to this research. I started it with a theoretical part, then did the statistical analysis, which turned out to be the toughest, yet most exciting, part of the project. It brought me to focus on the data provided by the University in order to find an original and efficient solution to my hypothesis. Even more so as I learned how to use a new, very intuitive and complete statistical software thanks to this process.

I think that this experience taught me how to structure and prioritise a complex project, and to find exhaustive and clear solutions. Facing this challenge helped me open my mind and horizons, pushing me beyond my own limits, even more so as I did it in a foreign language. I can only recommend such an internship: an international experience will always teach you a lot, as person, a student and a future worker.

Arriving alone in another city, country, or maybe even another continent, can prove very challenging and somehow frightening. And believe us... most of our staff went through that experience themselves in their student days! But we can assure you of one thing: once you set foot in the heart-warming city of Mons, a whole new adventure lies ahead. Going on exchange is said to be among the richest and most exciting experiences one can hope for in a lifetime. Our role in this chapter is to walk you through all the preparation steps, to make sure the process goes as smoothly as possible. Besides providing you with personal administrative support, UMONS also has welcome structures and events in store for you to get you acquainted with the student and Belgian lifestyles upon arrival, and throughout your stay:

Linguistic and Cultural Recipes for a Successful Stay at the University of Mons

APERITIF

TandemMons

In collaboration with the International Relations Office and the students, a reception committee for international mobility students has been set up by the UMONS Centre for Modern Languages (CLV). Tandems, composed of a UMONS student and an international student, promote the integration of the incoming student, and allow the UMONS student to discover another culture or cultures.

STARTER

French as a Foreign Language for international students

Throughout the academic year, French as a Foreign Language (FLE) courses are organised in the evening for international students and researchers (56 hours / 5 ECTS per term). Students are divided into groups based on their language level on arrival (A1, A2 or B1). Evening courses are preceded by optional preparatory courses (intensive sessions). These are face-to-face courses and cover not just language but also cultural activities, which encourage the integration of the student or researcher into the local and national socio-cultural environment.

SORBET

Remediation: English and Dutch

Interfaculty remediation courses in English and Dutch (evening courses) are offered to newcomers who have an insufficient language level, which could put them in difficulty in their normal programme.

MAIN COURSE

Credited language initiatives

Courses and seminars in English, Dutch and Spanish are integrated into the Bachelor's and Master's programmes. Our language courses consist of face-to-face classes, exercises, conversation seminars, laboratory sessions, distance learning courses and other educational activities (flipped classroom, off-site activities, etc.). Placement reports, Master's dissertations and scientific posters, written and presented in English, are validated with credits and assessed based on their linguistic quality.

DESSERT

Certification of Language Skills

The following international tests are organised at UMONS:

- TEFAQ (Test d'évaluation du français adapté au Québec) and TEF Canada
- TOEIC (Test of English for International Communication)
